

AAP made a big announcement about the Delhi Assembly elections, Congress in shock!

The results of Haryana and Jammu and Kashmir assembly elections were declared on Tuesday. In these elections, while Congress has faced a crushing defeat in Haryana, the party's performance in Jammu and Kashmir has also been disappointing. After this defeat of Congress, the party is also being targeted by other parties of the INDI Alliance. In this sequence, Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) has also given a big blow to Congress.

AAP announced to contest Delhi elections alone

Aam Aadmi Party's national spokesperson Priyanka Kakkar has clearly stated that the party will contest the upcoming Delhi Assembly elections alone. Priyanka Kakkar called the Congress overconfident and said that the Congress did not perform well in this election due to its overconfidence. She said, "On one side there is an overconfident Congress and on the other side there is an arrogant BJP. We will contest the elections on the basis of what we have done in the last 10 years in Delhi."

Kejriwal's statement: Avoid overconfidence

Aam Aadmi Party convenor and Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal also reacted to the results of the Haryana elections on Tuesday. He said that the biggest lesson of the results of this election is that one should never be overconfident in elections. Kejriwal said, "The election results in Haryana show that no one should take elections lightly. Every election and every seat is challenging." His statement is an indication that the party will plan seriously for elections in the future.

Preparation for Delhi Assembly elections

The next assembly elections in Delhi are expected in early 2025. In the 2020 assembly elections, the Aam Aadmi Party won 62 out of 70 seats, while the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) won 8 seats. Congress did not even open its account in that election. Apart from this, in the recently held Lok Sabha elections 2024, the BJP won all 7 Lok Sabha seats in Delhi.

Congress crisis

After this defeat of Congress, the situation of the party is becoming serious. The disappointing performance in these elections has indicated that Congress needs to improve its strategies. After being targeted by other parties of the INDI Alliance, Congress will now have to take concrete steps to maintain its credibility.

strategy for the next elections

Aam Aadmi Party has now made it clear that they will contest the elections alone. This move makes it clear that the party wants to strengthen its base further. While Congress will have to consider how they can attract their voters again. In this situation, the political scenario of Delhi has become very interesting. All the political parties are serious about their strategies and it remains to be seen which party achieves how much success in the upcoming elections.

Ratan Tata Once Defended a Woman Who Trolled Him on Instagram With 'Chhotu' Jibe

Ratan Tata, the former chairman of Tata Sons, is no longer with us, but his humility and simplicity will live on in the hearts of those who knew him. Tata, who passed away on October 9 at the age of 86 at Mumbai's Breach Candy Hospital, once found himself defending a "young woman" who called him "chotu" on Instagram. After a long absence from public life, Ratan Tata joined Instagram in 2019. He shared a post announcing the same on October 30: "I don't know about breaking the Internet, but I am so excited to join all of you on Instagram! After a long absence from public life, I look forward to exchanging stories and creating something special with such a diverse community!" Just a few months later, Tata's follower count on Instagram reached one million. In February 2020, he celebrated the milestone with a post on "gram" - Ratan Tata's own casual way of referring to Instagram. He wrote, "I've just seen that the number of people on this page has reached a milestone. This wonderful online family is not what I expected when I joined

Instagram and I have you to thank for it." "I do believe that the quality of connections you make in this age of the internet is far greater than any number," he continued. He further said, "Being a part of your community and learning from you is truly exciting and makes me very happy and I hope our journey together continues." Tata completed his post with a picture of himself sitting on the floor, legs crossed, with a contented smile. While many congratulated Tata on reaching one million followers, others praised him for his simplicity. Amid these barrage of comments, one particular comment drew attention. A woman while congratulating Tata trolled him as "chhotu". She wrote, "Congratulations Chhotu," with a heart emoticon. Many bashed her left and right for referring to the industrialist as "chhotu", so much so, that Tata himself had to defend the woman. The Padma awardee urged people to treat the woman with "respect". He wrote, "There is a child in each one of us. Please treat this young lady with respect." Sadly, the woman ended up deleting her comment after being subjected to bullying by faceless trolls. When Tata learned of this, he addressed it through his Instagram stories, condemning the harsh treatment she faced. Tata posted a series of three Instagram stories, beginning with, "A very innocent young lady expressed her heartfelt sentiments yesterday and called me a 'kid' in one of her comments." "She was bullied and disrespected for this, and in the end she deleted her sentiments," he wrote in his second story. He further expressed, "I appreciate and respect the heartfelt note that the young lady had left me, and hope she will not refrain from posting again."

Ex-Lover Simi Garewal Pens Emotional Farewell, Says 'It's Too Hard To..'

Simi Garewal, who once admitted to dating Ratan Tata, has shared a heartfelt tribute following the iconic industrialist's passing. Ratan Tata, the former chairman of Tata Sons and a beloved philanthropist, passed away at the age of 86 on Wednesday. He had been admitted to Mumbai's Breach Candy Hospital on Monday after suffering a sudden drop in blood pressure and was in critical condition in the ICU. In her emotional tribute, Simi took to social media to express her grief, sharing a nostalgic photo of herself with Tata from her iconic talk show Rendezvous with Simi Garewal. Alongside the throwback picture, she wrote, "They say you have gone .. It's too hard to bear your loss.. too hard.. Farewell my friend.. #RatanTata." Simi Garewal had opened up about her relationship with Ratan Tata in a 2011 interview. She described their bond, saying, "Ratan and I go back a long way. He's perfection, he's got a sense of humour, is modest, and the perfect gentleman. Money was never his driving force. He's not as relaxed in India as he is abroad." Despite their connection, their romance did not last, and Simi later married someone else. However, they remained close friends over the years. Ratan Tata, widely admired for his work ethic, humility, and generosity, never married nor had any children, despite coming close several times. He previously revealed in an interview that he had been in love on four occasions but never followed through with marriage due to various reasons. One of his most serious relationships was in the early 1960s while working in the US, but circumstances, including the 1962 Indo-China War, prevented it from moving forward. Tata's passing has left a deep void, with countless tributes pouring in for the industrialist who shaped India's corporate landscape and touched lives far beyond the boardroom.
